Objectives of course:

To encourage students to attain C1 level in English, and to operate in terms of the 4 skills at this level in their student and professional lives even after the end of the course.

Content:

Emphasis on authenticity – i.e. topics of contemporary interest – both general and student-specific.

“Media and social media and how they influence our lives” is the main topic for this semester. Materials will be authentic, taken from newspapers, magazines, internet etc.

As part of the above, there will be 3 guest speakers from the media (tv/radio/newspaper) who will come to our course and discuss with the group in English.

There will also be an emphasis on “academic English” in the sense that students can operate in English at C1 level appropriate to their qualifications (i.e. the correct use of register, style, tone etc.).

Grammar will be covered to ensure that students have a mastery of the tense system, and other important grammatical areas commensurate with C1 level.

Exam:

- reading comprehension of a text (for example, questions or summary or comments on the grammar to be found in the text)
- listening comprehension (for example, questions on content or summary or written response to the piece – i.e. comment)
- writing – an extended essay on a topic covered in the course, in conformity with the criteria set out in the C1 writing brief (i.e. logical structure and organisation, development of arguments, use of evidence etc.) Also writing a journalistic article for a student newspaper on a student or general topic
- presentation – there will also be a short presentation on a topic of choice to encourage students to encapsulate the main ideas of their chosen subject precisely and clearly for the benefit of an educated but not necessarily specialist audience. Such a presentation would be followed by a brief question and answer session.
